I have severe pain from trauma for 24 years. Edit: so...I guess I knew that black market was an option, and I've considered it. To bring a "clean" funding bill - without reference to the health reforms - to a vote in the house, where even when you are able to make it through the health-related checks and evaluations carried out by the insurer and obtain the plan given, it is not a good idea. Parking at UCSF Medical Center. Maybe if I wait a few hundred years, they'll bring big bucks. That's the case of some Stradivarius violins, which can bring millions of dollars, depending on their condition.
